WITH BOSTON
IN MIND

Irving "Pops" Saunders

MAKING HISTORY TIMELY

In 1940, Irving Saunders, namesake of this very bar, purchased a small hotel across from the former Metropolitan Theater, launching the Saunders family's storied legacy in Boston hospitality.

In the decades since, the family purchased & operated numerous hotels throughout Boston & beyond, with the crown jewel being The Lenox, purchased in 1966 & independently operated ever since.

When The Lenox was built in 1900, the Boston Albany Railroad station terminated immediately behind the hotel. Legend has it that guests with questionable credit habits would scrupulously request rooms on low floors at the back of the hotel, so they could sneak out the windows and onto a train to avoid paying their bills.
